OLD BRIDGE, NJ - July 23, 2026 -

All American Jerr-Dan Wreckers and Carriers has announced the expansion of its commercial truck parts supply service for towing companies, roadside assistance providers, transport businesses, municipal fleets, and commercial vehicle operators throughout Central New Jersey. The expanded service is available in Old Bridge, Sayreville, East Brunswick, South River, Spotswood, Helmetta, South Amboy, Matawan, Perth Amboy, Marlboro, Monroe Township, Keasbey, Woodbridge, Manalapan, Edison, and surrounding communities.

The expansion increases access to replacement components used in Jerr-Dan wreckers, rollback carriers, commercial tow trucks, and related recovery equipment. According to the company, the additional service area is intended to support businesses that perform routine maintenance, repairs, and inspections on commercial towing vehicles.

Operating from Old Bridge, New Jersey, All American Jerr-Dan Wreckers and Carriers is an authorized Jerr-Dan dealer and commercial truck center serving businesses throughout Central New Jersey. The company maintains a parts department that supports commercial towing and transport operations.

Commercial towing vehicles rely on a wide range of mechanical, hydraulic, electrical, and structural components that require periodic replacement as part of scheduled maintenance or repair. The timing and type of replacement parts vary depending on vehicle configuration, operating conditions, mileage, and manufacturer maintenance recommendations.

According to the company, the parts department includes components for Jerr-Dan wreckers, rollback carriers, and commercial tow trucks, as well as replacement parts for commercial truck platforms manufactured by Peterbilt, Freightliner, Hino, and Dodge Ram.

Replacement parts are commonly obtained during preventative maintenance, equipment inspections, repairs, and scheduled component replacement. Selecting compatible parts based on manufacturer specifications and vehicle requirements helps maintain the safe operation of commercial towing equipment.

The company's service department also performs inspections, diagnostics, preventative maintenance, and repair work for commercial vehicles. Mobile service is available for qualifying maintenance and repair needs when appropriate.

"Commercial towing vehicles require replacement components throughout their service life as part of regular maintenance and repair," said the owner of All American Jerr-Dan Wreckers and Carriers. "Expanding the availability of these parts allows businesses throughout additional communities to obtain components used in maintaining tow trucks, wreckers, and rollback carriers."

Commercial towing businesses across Middlesex and Monmouth counties operate fleets that support roadside assistance, vehicle recovery, municipal towing, commercial hauling, and transportation services. These operations typically involve ongoing maintenance programs that include inspections, scheduled servicing, and replacement of worn or damaged components.

According to the company, the expanded service provides businesses in the additional communities with a local source of replacement parts for routine maintenance and repair. Parts are available for a variety of commercial towing vehicle systems, including hydraulic assemblies, towing equipment, lighting, braking, suspension, electrical components, and other systems commonly serviced during vehicle maintenance.

Fleet operators may obtain replacement components as part of scheduled maintenance programs or when repairs are necessary after inspections or due to equipment wear. Parts requirements vary with fleet size, vehicle age, operating environment, and maintenance schedules.

The company stated that the expanded truck parts service reflects continued support for commercial towing businesses across Central New Jersey by improving access to replacement components for ongoing fleet maintenance.
